THE 14TH GEROLD VON BRAUNMÜHL MEMORIAL LECTURE

The German Foreign Ministry established and continues to support the Gerold von Braunmühl Memorial Lecture Series in honor of a SAIS Bologna Center alumnus, who was assassinated by terrorists on Oct. 10, 1986.

Von Braunmühl's career carried him to the most senior positions in his country's foreign ministry. At the time of his death, he was Political Director, working closely with the Foreign Minister.

In the inaugural lecture in 1988, Germany's Minister of Foreign Affairs, Hans-Dietrich Genscher described von Braunmühl as one of the "architects of German politics," particularly of its Ostpolitik, and "an outstanding example of historical experiences, the spiritual stimuli and the political premise that govern the fate of our nation and the course of German foreign policy."

The ministry also established the Gerold von Braunmühl Memorial Fellowship for a German student at the Bologna Center, which the Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst and the Bologna Center administer.

In addition to Hans-Dietrich Genscher, previous speakers and their titles at the time of their lectures were: Alois Mock, Foreign Minister of Austria and Bologna Center alumnus; Gèza Jeszenszky, Foreign Minister of Hungary; Süleyman Demirel, former Prime Minister and President of Turkey; Douglas Hurd, United Kingdom Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs; Jüri Luik, Foreign Minister of Estonia; Susanna Agnelli, Foreign Minister of Italy; Jacques Santer, President of the European Commission; Marjorie Mowlam, M.P., United Kingdom, Secretary of State for Northern Ireland; Miguel Nadal Segalà, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs of Spain; and Klaus Kinkel, former Deputy Chancellor; Foreign Minister of the Federal Republic of Germany; and President Richard von Weizsäcker, Former President of the German Federal Republic (1984–1994).

The Bologna Center expresses its gratitude to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Federal Republic of Germany for its support of the Gerold von Braunmühl Memorial Lecture Series.
