

Catherine Fieschi,
Director of Counterpoint UK

Catherine Fieschi is the director of the London-based cultural risk consultancy Counterpoint. Counterpoint provides governments, NGOs and corporate actors with strategic advice on how cultural and social dynamics affect politics, policy-making and markets. Prior to founding Counterpoint, Catherine was head of research at the British Council, and prior to that she led the London-based think tank Demos (2005-2008). From 2001 to 2004 she was the Director of the Centre for European Governance at the University of Nottingham. She holds a PhD in Comparative Politics from McGill University.

Catherine holds a PhD in political science from McGill University and is the author of In the Shadow of Democracy (2008) and of numerous pamphlets and articles on extremism, populism, and identity politics and their impact on policy and business. She has advised governments and businesses around the world on various aspects of populist and extremist forms of mobilisations and serves regularly on government task-forces. She is a Senior Associate in the Department of Government at LSE and was previously a Senior Member of St Antony's College, Oxford. She is a regular contributor to press, radio and television debates and a trustee of European Alternatives.
