

SERGIO ARRAMBIDE

Sergio Arrambide, from Mexico, obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration from Monterrey Institute of Technology and Higher Education, Mexico, in 2004, and has recently received the Certificate of Canadian Citizenship from The Minister of Citizenship and Immigration of Canada in 2016 after living and working in Vancouver, B.C. Canada since 2011. Sergio's academic interests focus on international relations & security, in particular as regard the involvement of the United Nations leadership in the efficient and agile implementation of best practice policy reference models of Western European and Nordic countries in developing countries. During his studies he has acquired a sound theoretical background on these topics, which he has complemented with the practical experience gained in his numerous successful professional activities.

Since 2011, Sergio has been actively involved with international affairs that include the global labor movement and the mining and publishing industries. Since 2011, as Personal Assistant to the President of the National Union of Mine, Metal, Steel and Allied Workers of Mexico he successfully organized for 6 consecutive years a major unique private international event called Annual Meeting of Cooperation and Shared Responsibility for Labor and Enterprise Productivity in Mexico, which gathers once a year in Vancouver, Canada, CEOs of more than forty-five of the leading global mining, steel, and automotive companies, with local, national and international labor union leaders, senior government officials and c-level executives of mayor newspapers. Impressed by his organizational and communication skills and by his expertise, International Labor Media Group Ltd. offered him the position of pro bono Chief Operating Officer, in which he worked until February 2016 after successfully publishing a nonfiction book in 3 languages, distributing it in more than 140 countries after positioning it as #4 in the New York Times Bestseller list.

Sergio has also attended Executive Committee Meetings of IndustriALL Global Union in Geneva, Switzerland.

Both in his excellent academic performance and in his successful professional experiences, Sergio has proved to be a very talented, committed and focused person, with remarkable analytical skills and outstanding leadership.

At SAIS, he would like to concentrate in European Studies and International Law to prepare for a career in the field of public policy. In particular, he would like to work for the United Nations Secretariat or a specialized agency of the United Nations, dealing with issues concerning the use of strategic campaigns, leadership and information technologies to execute and implement the strategic objectives, programs, policies and decisions of the United Nations with other agencies.

Sergio speaks English and Spanish fluently and has a good command of Italian.
